

Employee Travel and Expense Policy

Purpose: This file is part of a sample multi-document project for testing API-key protected RAG upload, indexing, semantic search, chat answers, and source citations.

Overview

This policy describes travel approvals, booking rules, reimbursement requirements, meal limits, and expense claim timelines.

Employees must use reasonable judgment and choose cost-effective travel options for business trips.

Travel Approval

Domestic travel must be approved by the reporting manager before booking.

International travel must be approved by the department head and finance team before tickets are purchased.

Emergency travel may be approved through email confirmation and regularized after the trip.

Booking Rules

Economy class must be used for domestic flights. Premium travel requires written department-head approval.

Hotel bookings should follow the approved city-wise budget limits unless the client or event location requires an exception.

Reimbursement

Expense claims must be submitted within ten working days after travel completion.

Original bills or digital receipts are required for hotel, flight, taxi, and meal expenses.

Claims without receipts may be rejected unless finance approves a documented exception.

Expense Type	Required Proof
Flight or Train	Ticket and invoice
Hotel	Tax invoice and payment receipt
Taxi or Rideshare	Trip receipt
Meals	Bill with date and location

Meal and Local Transport Limits

Meal reimbursement is allowed for business travel days only and must follow the company expense limits.

Local transport should use standard taxi, rideshare, bus, metro, or approved rental services.
